

Sweatcoin Observes 15% Uptick in Customer Retention Using MoEngage® Advanced Analytics

The Business

Sweatcoin is a gamified pedometer app leveraging behavioural science to overcome physical inactivity. With over 12 million users, they aim to convert your steps into a digital currency called Sweatcoin to motivate you to walk more.

The Challenge

Sweatcoin saw phenomenal growth in sign-ups; their next step was to deepen their engagement and retention at scale.

The brand observed that it did not tailor its overall customer engagement strategy to customers' preferences and affinities. The main reason is that the brand manually sets up all customer engagement campaigns (from writing messages to building workflows).

The Solution

The Sweatcoin marketing team onboarded MoEngage to understand their customers on a deeper level and automate all manual customer engagement processes. MoEngage's Advanced Analytics helped them get detailed, actionable insights on customer behaviour and campaign performance. The platform also boosts productivity by eliminating manual work across multiple teams.

About MoEngage
